

Few words...

My name is Valia Binikou, I am a digital media designer and a crafter in my free time. I studied Visual Communication Design and Design for Interactive Media in London and I have been working in this field since the 56k modem was considered a luxury (1997).

I have been a freelancer, an employee and a company co-founder, having worked for small and large clients with the same passion. I love clean design, smart color combinations, original concepts and I always pay attention to the details that make the difference and to easy navigation.

Right now I am offering my services as a freelancer, so if you have a project I could assist you with, I would be happy to meet you and talk about it in greater detail.
